SQ3R

Survey—Take a look at the reading assignment first!

- Preview all major headings and subheadings.
- Read provided introductions and conclusions.
- Look at graphics, charts, maps, pictures, diagrams and read their explanations.
- Notice italicized, bolded, or repeated words.
- Think about how the material is organized.

SQ3R

Question—Turn the headings and subheadings into questions.

- This sets a purpose for your reading!
- If there are not headings, turn the first sentence of paragraphs into questions.
- Use what, where, when, why or how to create your questions.

Example:

Sample Paragraph Heading: “Avoiding the high cost of plagiarism.”

Possible Questions:

What is plagiarism?

How can I avoid plagiarizing?

Why should I avoid plagiarism?

3R: What does 3R stand for?

SQ3R

Read—Read to find the answer to the questions. You may choose to write out your questions and answers, or write brief notes or key words in the margins so you can review them later.

Recite—After you've found each answer, say it aloud in your own words. This will help you move the information to your long term memory.

Review—Review your questions and answers.
